All-in-one AI Guide for
Foreign Independent Travelers (FIT)
Visiting Korea

What should I do when I visit Korea?

Finding attractions, restaurants, learning the language, understanding history...

Not sure where to start or how to find what you need?

Travel Pain Points

Traditional audio guides can be boring.

Listening to a fixed explanation from start to finish often doesn't match what you're seeing or what you're interested in. If you can't pause, ask questions, and continue when you want, the guide eventually becomes background noise.

Language barriers make it hard to even ask questions.

Whether you want to ask for directions or learn more about a place, not knowing how to say it makes you hesitate. What should be the most natural part of travel — asking questions — becomes the most difficult.

Search results don't reflect the real experience.

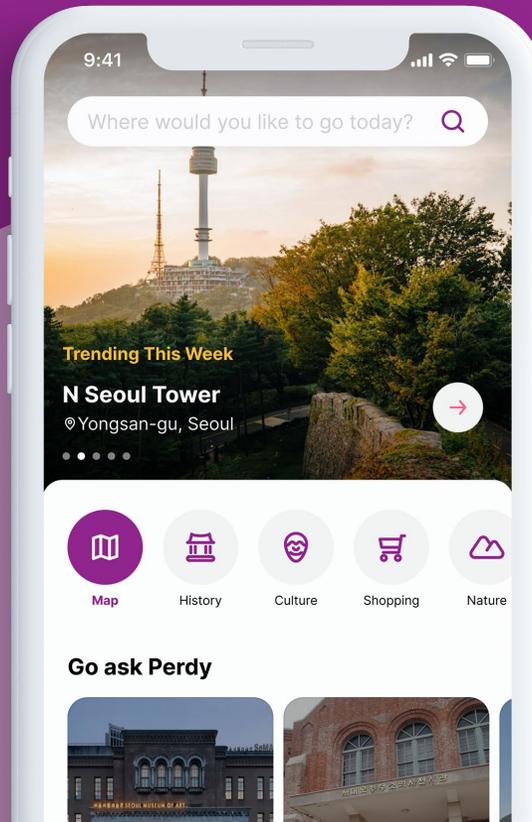

Information from social media and search engines is often promotional, outdated, or different from the actual atmosphere. It's quite common to feel disappointed when reality doesn't match the photos.
